Barred Owl Trail (1/3 mile)
The Barred Owl Trail is an easy and wide trail that everyone can enjoy! This hike will take you past many interesting sights such as an animal track pit, a nursing log and a refrigerator tree (a hawthorn tree whose thorns are used by shrikes to store prey-usually bugs)!

Red Oak Trail – West (1 ½ mile)
This trail wraps around a giant glacial kettle (pay attention for the trail switchback), which gives you a great view of the forest. Outstanding 200-year-old oaks and white pines can be seen along with an old fox burrow and trees with the insides charred.

Red Oak Trail – East (1/3 mile)
This hilly trail takes you through a world of ferns and past a “nurse-stump.” Towards the end you might be lucky and see some salamanders resting on a log and in the early summer, Jack-in-the-pulpits.

Vole Trail (1 mile)
Welcome to our wildflower filled prairie-meadow! This trail follows a ridge along the forest edge overlooking the lakes and offering sweeping prairie views. It is ideal for spotting a wide variety of birds - including the Golden-winged Warbler.

Deer Trail (1/2 mile)
This trail takes you along the southern edge of the prairie. Along the path, visitors can watch bluebirds tending to their nests and young in the many bluebird houses, observe woodpeckers at the large dead tree and look for monarch caterpillars on the milkweed.

Bear Trail (2 2/3 mile)
Hunt Hill’s longest trail is really worth the hike. It takes you over two footbridges and through the deep forest where you will experience views of our 4 glacial lakes. This trail is accessed from the Frances Andrews or Vole trails. We recommend starting the hike via the Frances Andrews trail so you start the hike going down the big hill instead of ending by hiking up the hill!

Bog Trail (1/10 mile)
The bog is a very interesting habitat with a lot of unique plants – including orchids and carnivorous plants. To protect visitors and the bog, we ask that everyone stays on the elevated bog walk. On this trail you will also find the smallest fern at Hunt Hill – the Oak fern.

Frances Andrews Trail (1/3 mile)
Named after the woman who donated this very land, this trail will take you to the two cabins the Andrews family built in the early 1900’s. Today these cabins are available for rent. This trail also brings you to the start of the Bear Trail.

Old Hwy Trail (1 mile)
Visitors can park along Audubon Road by the powerlines to access this trail which follows the original path of WI State Hwy 11, US Hwy 53 and the old Hwy M. To learn more about the history of these roads, view the ‘Hunt Hill Connection’ book at Hunt Hill.

Kinglet Trail* (1 mile)
This trail follows the fence line and is a great trail to look and listen for all the woodland birds (especially the scarlet tanagers, broad-winged hawks, ovenbirds, red-eyed vireos, kinglets and piliated woodpeckers) that call this dense forest habitat home.

Porcupine Trail* (1/3 mile)
Follow this trail to find the porcupine den tree while enjoying woodland wildflowers.

Trillium Trail* (2/10 mile)
This short trail connects the Kinglet and Porcupine trail for hikers who prefer to stay in the woods instead of hiking the field edge.

Crane Trail* (2/3 mile)
This trail follows the fence line through the woods, reaches a wonderful overlook and then cuts downhill to meander along the field edge. The overlook is a great place to watch for Sandhill Cranes.

* Visitors can park on the side of Audubon Road, near the Red Shed, and access these trails through an opening in the fence to the left of the gate.
